"Just another thing we can be thankful for, Sister."

"Well, well, so this is Patrick. You were right, Katie, he is out of this world."

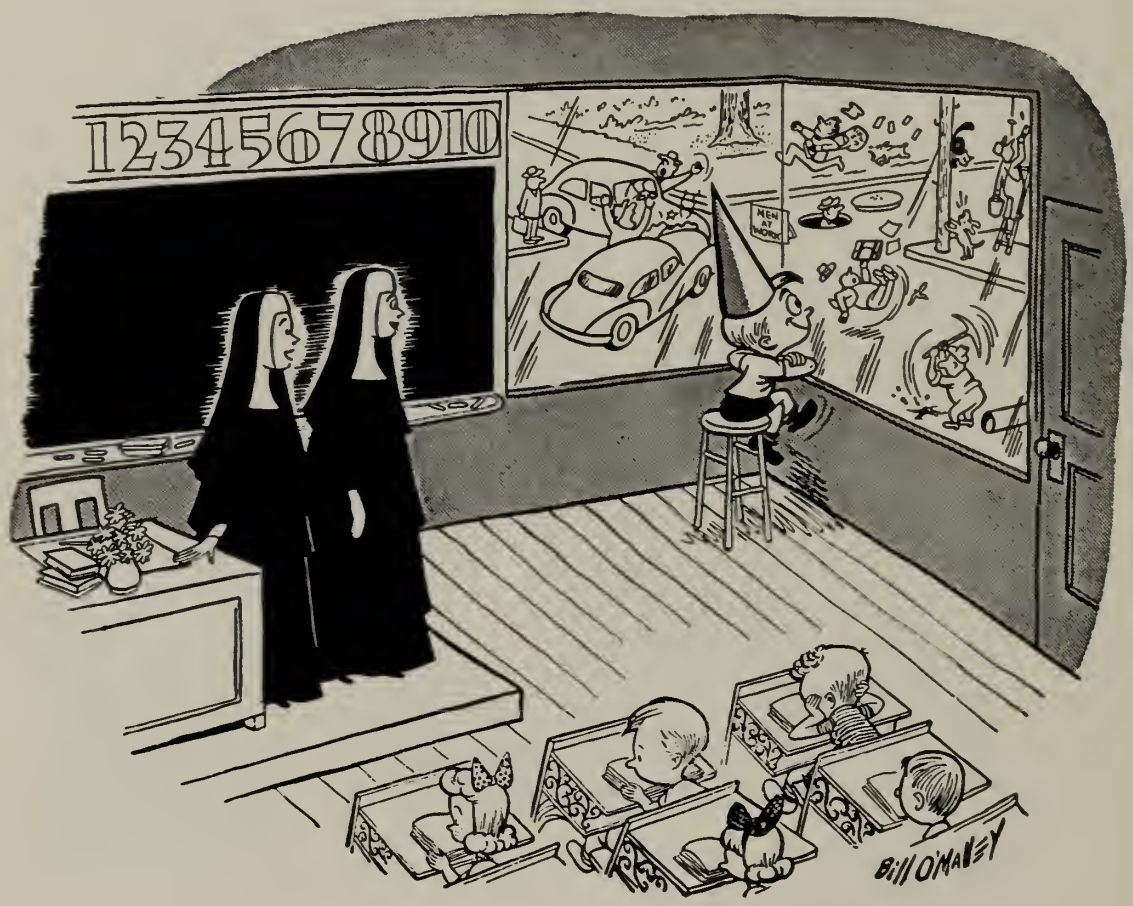
MURDER
MYSTERY

"Enough of Ben Franklin . . ."

"Too much starch!"

"Just the negative, please; we want to see ourselves in white."

"Psst! Hey, fellers—Guns!"



"You know, Sister, I believe 'sitting in the corner' has lost its effectiveness since we moved into our new building."

BILL O'MALLEY

"No chairs, I got the idea at the local drug store."

"You were speaking of miracles, Sister . . ."

Bill O'Malley

"Sister, remember me, third grade at Sacred Heart?"

"I beg to differ, Ump!"

"Mine is the green one with 'Merry Christmas' on it."

"Why was school closed today, Sister?"

"Hurry, Sister, it's Willie, he——"

"——found a snake!"

"I beg your pardon, sir, but how long has it been since you've had your eyes examined?"

"Let's not sit behind them!"

"Just ten minutes more and they'll be out."

"Now before you give this to your Dad, Timmy, you'd better mow the lawn, bring in the firewood, tidy up your room and run the errands."

"The note must be in my other pocket."

"Oh, well, we had to lose one sometime, men."

"Cheer up, fellows, we can't win them all."

"Chin up."

"Remember me, Sister, Willie in the Sixth Grade?"

"Now remember?"

"Beaver!"

"Skates! What a marvelous idea!"

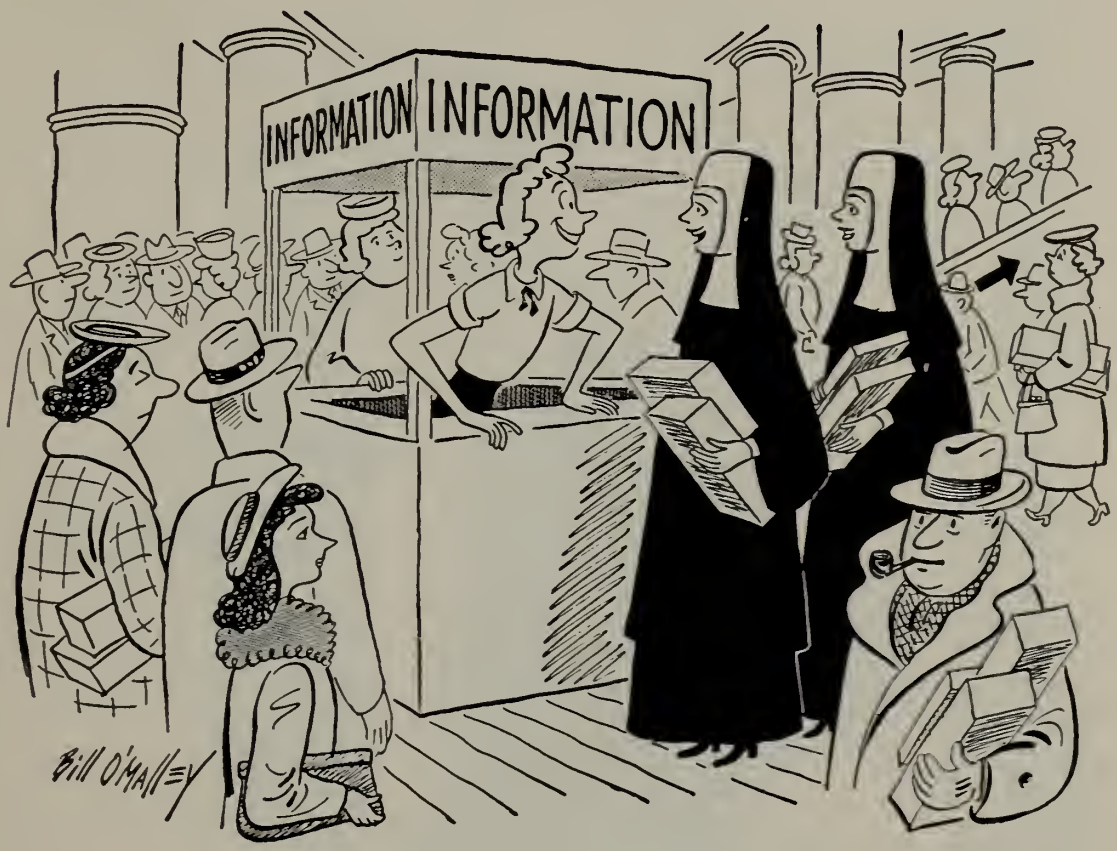
"Do you mind the open window, Sisters?"

"Talk to them, Sister, you're the natural history teacher!"

"I didn't have the heart to tell him we were leaving."

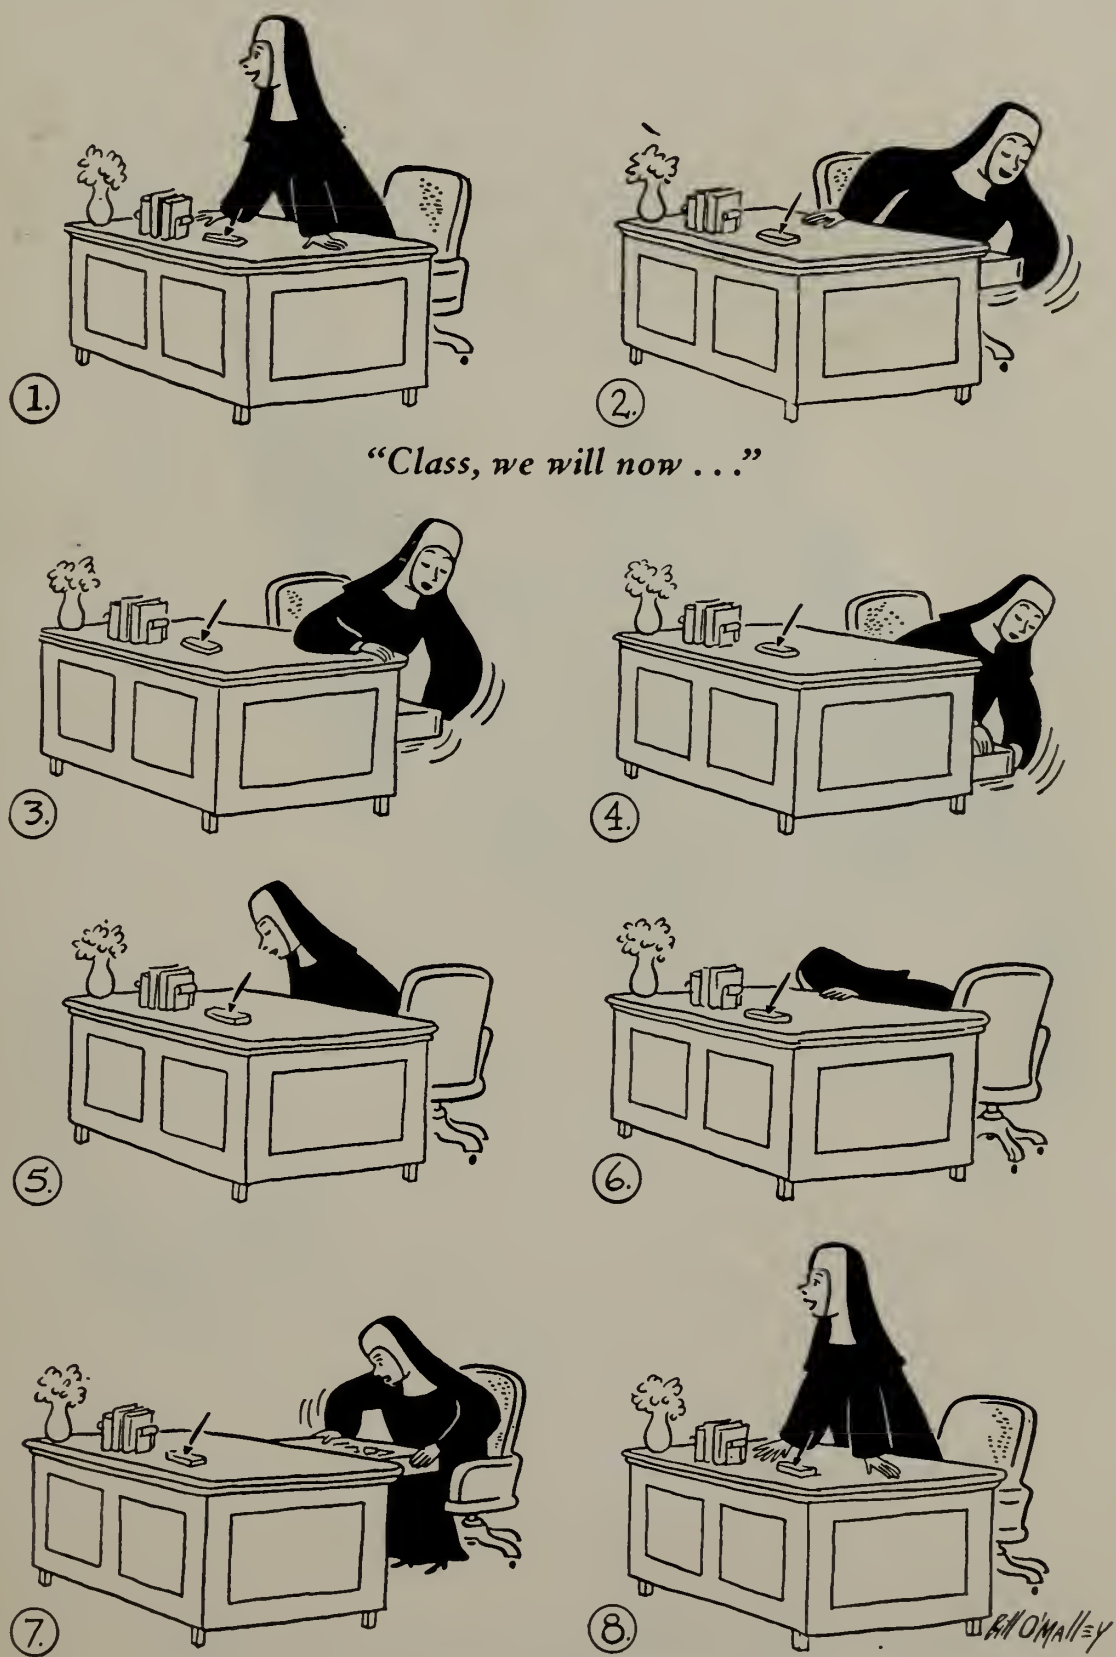


"Geraldine Reynolds! I hope your answers here are better than they were in school."

"There, that's fine now children . . . let's put our little pets back in their jars . . . and we'll get along with our lesson."

"I never know who it's going to be."

"Oh, Mary!"



"Class, we will now . . ."

". . . have a rest period."

"Sister, would you like to go for a ride . . . oh, skip it!"
